

Fort Wayne Weekly Sentinel, Allen County, Indiana; Dec. 20, 1905

David S. Mauller, a well-known farmer in Union township, Adams county, died Monday. His throat became infected by poisonous dust from cornfodder, and he slowly strangled to death despite the efforts of physicians to relieve him.

Contributed by Karin King