

FELL DEAD

Mrs. James Steele Victim of Heart Failure

Well Know Lady Called to Final Reward Without Instant Warning

With the words, "This is the prettiest day I ever saw," upon her lips, Mrs. James Steele, who lives southwest of Peterson, fell dead, about seven o'clock this morning. About a month ago she suffered an attack of lagrippe, but had recovered, though she had not regained her usual health. Yesterday afternoon she went out into the yard where her husband was at work and said she felt like she was going to die. The family did not notice any symptoms of bad health, and thought nothing of the remark. About three o'clock this morning she awoke her husband, told him she didn't feel very well and asked for a drink of water. He got it for her and she slept until daylight. She got up this morning, dressed herself and was apparently in good health, talking while her daughters prepared breakfast. Finally she went over and opened the door and spoke of the beautiful day to her son, who was standing near. Almost instantly after saying these words she turned deathly pale, sank to the floor and within one minute was dead. The family are terribly shocked over the sad event and have the sympathy of the entire community. Her husband, five daughters and two sons survive her. She was fifty-six years old and a sister of Dr. E. H. and Alex LeBrun of this city. Coroner J. S. Falk was called and conducted an inquest. His verdict will no doubt show death due to heart failure. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.
