EARL MARTIN IS TAKEN BY DEATH Former President of Cloverleaf Creameries Dies Suddenly

Earl Martin, 58, one of the founders and a former president of the Cloverleaf Creameries, Inc., of this city, died last night in a hotel at Olean, New York.

Mr. Martin was production manager for the Mid-West Creameries, operated by the Indiana state farm bureau and was in the east attending to business for the company. His office was in Indianapolis.

Word of his death was received here this morning by friends and former business associates. He died during the night, presumably from a heart attack. He was accompanied to Olean by Edison Elbridge, of Chicago.

In 1915 Mr. Martin and W. A. Klepper of this city organized the Martin-Klepper Creamery company in this city, the name being changed to the Cloverleaf Creameries, Inc., in 1920, when a merger of the Decatur, Huntington and Bluffton plants was made. Mr. Martin was not associated with the local creamery concern.

About five years ago Mr. Martin accepted a position with the Indiana Farm Bureau and was manager of the several creameries operated by this association. He formerly lived in Huntington, but recently maintained his home at Lake Wawasee. He is survived by his wife.

The body will be taken to Wawasee. Funeral arrangements were not learned here this afternoon.
