BAG MOOSE AND DEER

L.L. Yager, Dr. E.D. Bixler and Willis Glendening of Geneva returned Friday from a hunting trip into Canada. They were gone two weeks. Dr. Bixler was successful in shooting a moose which weighed more than 800 pounds, and Yager and Glendening each bagged a deer. The moose was shot far from civilization, and the men had to dress the animal and cut it into pieces in order to carry it to their camp. The camp was 8 miles from where the moose was shot, and it took them two and one-half days to carry all the meat to the camp. They had to make their Image cut off.
