

(No one on earth could tell us aught
That Whetstone Johnstone has not taught!)
She's told us more construction, yes,
Than you could really ever guess.
Upon the blackboard she'll decline,
But 'lows us never to recline.
Glorious wonders she has wrought.
Now who is she?

Energetic, with tongue so bold,
She never has much time to scold.
And yet each day she n'er runs out
Of something good to talk about.
She talks 'gainst Woodrow and for League,
Her hands fly 'bout, her eyes get big.
Her politics can not be told.
Now who is she?

With hair so black, and eyes light blue,
She's busy, well—the whole day thru.
She's learned a lot 'bout railroad rates
From listening to our hot debates.
She calls for order in her room
Lest time in fun we do consume.
(But a hearty laugh she likes too).
Now who is she?

MARY MAUCK.

ENGLISH 4A THEME COURSE IN BRIEF

I—STORY OF LOCAL COLOR

Yesterday five Reds were deported from Greenville for disturbing the local color.

I—TALE

A Modern Rip Van Winkle

In IA English, Charles Paul, sleepy by nature, and henpecked by the teachers, for once closed his eyes and mouth. For 3600 seconds he slept. Finally he awoke and looked around him with unbelieving eyes. What changes time can bring! Charles, while sleeping, had gone back a half grade, for he found himself looking into the eyes of the mere Freshmen. But strange to say he had gained new life, for he jumped up and hurried from the room like a streak of lightning. Only the laughter of the IB's could be heard. Charles does not care to play "Rip" again, not even for the amusement of the Freshmen.

III—DRAMATIC INCIDENT

List to my tale of woe. On Thursday night when Vincennes played on the local floor, "Mr. Sid" had his first date with Flossy Bruner. Luther Mayhugh's heart was nearly broken, but being young, he survived the shock. List to my tale of woe. Flossy had two more "non-Lutherian" dates. Luther is still living.

MARY MAUCK.

"When my tongue blabs, then let mine eyes not see."—Shakespeare.

SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

(By SHIRLEY RYAN)

Red Cross

Princeton High School recognized the value of the American Red Cross by contributing in its small way the limit of its possibilities. The domestic science girls made bed-sacks for the soldiers, and the manual training boys made boxes to be used in shipping Red Cross supplies. The students took memberships in the Junior Red Cross and contributed their mites to the fund for humanitarian relief.

The Fall Festival

The annual fall festival given by the high school exceeded all expectations and is looked upon as a bright spot in the year's school life. The "gym" was decorated with pumpkins and autumn leaves and presented a scene of fall foliage. Here the pupils and many guests gathered to enjoy the round of frivolity and fun.

First came the grand march, with everybody in festival costumes. Then came the girls' "Jim" class, boys in girls' bloomers, with Floyd Baker impersonating Miss Bates, giving a series of "gym" exercises in burlesque. Then followed the court scene, with Grace Watson as judge and Mary Vivian Ziliak, Elizabeth Milburn, Margaret Noble and Mary Eleanor Ewing as lawyers. The defendant was Mabel Daugherty, and the charge "intoxicated with the dance." Charles Ballard was the policeman.

The baby show brought an entry from each class, and John Skeavington, the Sophomore baby, captured the prize. A western playlet was presented by Margaret Noble and George Daugherty. In addition there were various sideshows. There was a moot court. Charles Ballard, our bantam weight policeman, kept good order and many culprits found their way to Judge Maurice Wilkinson, who inflicted the heavy fine of the price of a football ticket. The final attraction was the black-face minstrel show, under the direction of Miss Mossman. Songs and gags kept things moving at a lively rate.

Refreshments were on sale and the boys' pocketbooks suffered. The girls were sales boosters without any conscience.

PROGRAM FOR FALL FESTIVAL

November 21, 1919

- 7:30— 8:00 Party assembles.
8:00— 8:15 Grand March.
8:15— 9:00 Stunts in Assembly.
1. "Jim" Class.
2. A Modern Drama.
3. The Trial.
9:00—10:00 Enter—The Class Babies!!
1. Baby Show.
2. Fortune Tellers.
3. Moot Court.
4. Side Shows on the Midway.
5. Eats! Eats! Eats! Eats! Eats!
10:00—11:00 Minstrel Show.
Awarding of prizes for cleverest costume, for most popular baby.
11:15 Good-night!