

Mildred Panchaud: To graduate in a dress and convince Margaret and Grace that they are "terribile auditu" in "middies."
Shirley Ryan: To become a female Jasha Heifetz.
Carl Shafer: To get a final understanding with Beatrice.
Beatrice Skelton: To prove her affection for one Vesper.
Bertha Stormont: To obtain a flesh reducer.
Ruskin Swan: To escape the pursuit of the "wild women."
Lowell Taylor: To become an auctioneer.
Grace Watson: To have help in choosing between Leland and Gerald.
Marie Weist: To get married.
Maurice Wilkinson: To be able to criticize Margaret.
Walter Williams: To cultivate meekness.
Floyd Yochum: To become a platform favorite.
Dorothy Wolfe: To have her lessons once in a while.
Mary Vivian Ziliak: To have mirrors all around the square.

WE WANT TO KNOW

Miss Bates: Why it is that Mr. Hammond waits until just before a party, or the time to have his picture taken, to attend a board of control meeting?
Anyone: How much noise Miss Lowry would make if she possessed a wooden leg?
The Civics Class: Miss Saupert's politics.
The Teachers: Mr. Hammond declared that diamond rings were high at Christmas and still going up.
Latin Classes: What Miss Hancock would have done if Dr. Johnstone had never lived?
Board of Control: Explanation by Mr. Hammond of the two dollar bill for cosmetics handed in by him for November 21, 1919.
All the Sharks: Where Miss O'Brian learned to cut cards on the left?
Hygiene Class: Where Miss O'Brian found three pronunciations for "iodine"?
Senior Class: When Ruskin sings his swan song will Mae bleat?
VI Period Assembly: Why does Ethel House always sit behind Bill Raney when she uses the encyclopedia?
Everybody: Mr. Hammond says if he had a thousand dollars it would build a quarter of a bungalow—Why?

December 3, 1919. Mr. Hammond registers a dark, brown study. He wrote two letters to widely divergent points of the compass, mailed them hastily, and now is quite sure he put the wrong letters in the wrong envelopes. Query: Were the letters in right, or is Mr. Hammond in wrong? Moral: Look before you seal. It's the anxious seat for Mr. H. until the returns come in.

Freshmen, take this warning,
You'll find 'tis true—
If you don't get constructions,
Why, they'll get you!

Stage Yourself

Look to your appearance. It's a first thing about you that gets across, favorably or unfavorably.

It's our business to help you stage yourself; to help you make the right impression, by providing a complete selection of

Men's Wearables for you to choose from.

They are the last word in what well-dressed men should wear. Will you investigate the merchandise behind this message?

ALVA LEVI