Notes

George Washington Franklin

George Washington Franklin is buried in Martin's Hill Cemetery near Summer Shade, Kentucky. The cemetery is on a private farm. The cemetery is in shambles and overgrown with trees and brush. The tombstone cannot be identified. Some of the tombstones are nothing more than river rocks placed as headstones. His burial was described as follows by a family member watching the ceremony:

"Lou Emma was not gone very long when our Grandfather Franklin died. Then it was very common to die from the flu, or influenza, as it is properly called. With no miracle drugs, hundreds died from it each year. Uncle Carl and Uncle Herbert were in the service and brought home measles while on leave. This added to the flu epidemic, took the lives of Grandpa and the wives of both Carl and Herbert. This left no place for Grandma Franklin to live and she came to our house. When Grandpa died, he was brought to Beamont for burial. That was the first time a hearse was ever seen at Summer Shade and the first to go up on Martin Hill - a family cemetery. The hearse was horse-drawn and it took two people in the front by each horse to hold thorn going upsuch a long hill. There were also two men in the back to help hold on and put big rocks in behind the wheels to Keep it from rolling back. They would pull a short way, stop, put the rocks down to hold, and let the horses rest a bit before continuing. It was quite a sight. The hearse was black with grey-shades and decorated with lots of tassels. "

While in Kentucky during a visit in April 2010, I found the road desribed in the paragraph as well as the cemetery. The cemetery can be reached by taking Martin's Cemetery Road just outside Summer Shade. You have to travel a little ways down the road then go cross country through a field, then walk about another half mile before reaching Martin's Hill Family Cemetery. There is another cemetery fairly close to Martins Cemetery- it also is in bad shape and located in the woods.

Curtice Franklin

Curtice was living with his sister Lorena in 1920 in Summer Shade. He was marked down as "Cush." On a WW 1 Draft card with a DOB of 1889- he could only make a mark of an "X" which could mean he was not educated. The comment on the draft card leads me to believe he was not very competent-If it is indeed his draft card. The DOB is off by two/three years???? Information reveals Curtice spent many years in an institution. He is believed to have been institutionalized at Hopkinsville Mental Institution.

A distant relative relates that Curtis was in a mental institution in Thompsonville, KY during his life time. He is buried near Summer Shade- Kentucky.

Walter F Franklin

I have seen Walter with middle name of "F" also.

Herbert Lewis Franklin

Herbert supposedly served in WW 1 in the European campaign where he was gased by the Germans. Herbert married Idell Goodbread which was Julia Goodbread's sister. Julia was married to Carl Franklin which was Herbert's brother. Two Franklin brothers married two Goodbread sisters.

Herbert and Idell are buried in Fairview Cementery-Bowling Green-Kentucky.
