

ADAM P. HANNA

Source: Waveland Independent Waveland, Montgomery County, Indiana Friday, Oct 30, 1903

The fire bells waked the sleepers on Friday afternoon and on investigation the house of AP Hanna was discovered to be in flames. The fire seemed to have gained such headway that it looked like a waste of energy for the firemen to go over, but they went all the same. When they got there they found the available water almost surrounded by fire but they backed the engine up and worked to such good advantage that the entire lower story was saved. The fire caught on the roof, probably from a spark from the chimney and this made it burn in good shape. The alarm was turned in by TL Canine's folks, who have had recent experience and know a fire when they see it. -
