

Source: Crawfordsville Review March 7, 1912

Mr. and Mrs. William Malsbary recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home in Rantoul, Ill. They were married at Montgomery, Hamilton County, Indiana in 1862 and soon after removed to a farm near Darlington, where they lived for many years, only recently going to Illinois to reside. Their 50th anniversary was fittingly observed and almost all the members of their family were present to help in the celebration. There are four sons and three daughters, besides 14 grandchildren. Jasper Malsbary of Crawfordsville and George Malsbary of Darlington are brothers of Mr. Malsbary. The bride and groom of half a century were the recipients of many handsome gifts and many hearty congratulations upon the happy event. - kbz