

FRANK SEYBOLD

Source: Waveland Independent newspaper, Waveland, Montgomery County, Indiana 3-3-1933

Frank Seybold is training to get a job with Ringling's circus. On Friday, down at the railway station, he dropped his lines and stepped down on the dray tongue to pick them up. About that time one of the mules gave a jump and threw Frank clear over him so that he lit on his hip and shoulder on the frozen ground. Fortunately he fell clear of the dray. The mules took a short run up the hill and stopped. Frank was mighty sore the next day, but lucky not to have some broken bones. -- kbz