

MAX TANNENBAUM - runs for Councilman

Source: Crawfordsville Journal Wednesday, Sept 24, 1913

Max Tannenbaum, the other candidate for councilman-at-large, has lived and been in business in the city for 35 years. He is not an office seeker and never asked for office. He is a stockholder and adviser of one of the strong banks of the city. He is recognized as a man with good judgement on all things. As a business man he certainly is interested in the growth of his adopted city. He has repeatedly been selected for grand and petit jury service, and has been drafted as a member of the county council solely because of his temperate judgment, good sense, absolute integrity and business ability.

At end of article about 9 men running for office (Republicans) --

Can any one name the boss in any party that will control the actions of the above men if elected, and if controlled will such control lead them against the best interests of the city? In their choice of men to run the various departments of the city has the past administration of the men now in office chosen anyone for the benefit he would do the party? Have they been chosen for the part's good of the city's and have these appointees made good? Not a single man in the above list has sought his nomination. They have not been "hand picked," by any committee guided by the subtle influences of wily politicians, they were selected by a large representation of a majority of the voters of Crawfordsville in an open, public convention. The service and sacrifice demanded of them in nearly all cases will not be paid for by the nominal salaries offered. This city is asking of these business men a favor. Would not any city be fortunate to have its affairs left in their hands?
