Augusta, MAINE., July 26 -- Franklin college students revealed today that they made a profit of over 50 per cent on their 1350-mile bicycle trip from the Indiana college town. "We had $17 between us when we started." said Kenneth E. Welsh, 24-year old pre-medical student from Waveland, Ind., "Now we have $26." Welsh admitted, however, that the debit side of the ledger showed "two dozen" flat tires and a pair of worn-out shoes apiece. Welsh and his companion, David Haynes, 21, of Kokomo, Ind., said they picked Augusta as a goal because they had never been here before. They worked briefly as farm hands at various points along the way in order to stay in funds.

Wow, thanks, thanks, thanks Ginny A for this nifty little piece - kz
